Further Potentially Useful Websites

Crypto Fund Research (https://cryptofundresearch.com/)
Targeted specifically towards crypto startups looking for investments. They offer a downloadable database of 850+ crypto VCs and funds with some 50 attributes, and a Venture Funding Finder. But they do have a one-time fee of $387..

They also have some other products like a 'founder's tool' designed for identifying crypto fund's to invest in one's company
https://cryptofundresearch.com/venture-funding-finder-tool/

Chainbroker (https://chainbroker.io/)
An open dashboard dedicated to crypto projects funding.
Lists funds in the space, with whether they're active/passive, type, last investment and ROI related metrics if required.
It also includes data on projects and fundraisers on web3. Although not as extensive, it seems to have more advanced filters than DefiLlama.
The dashboard is public and free.

Crunchbase (https://www.crunchbase.com/)
One of the more well known platforms, with more extensive public data on a wider scope of funds and VCs, along with people to contact.
It also contains more specific fundraising data that looks more extensive than defillama.
However a fee of $29 per month is needed to unlock premium and view all the entries.
https://www.crunchbase.com/hub/blockchain-companies-seed-funding https://www.crunchbase.com/hub/cryptocurrency-companies-seed-funding

PitchBook (https://pitchbook.com/)
 Again has detailed information on Venture Capitals and products focused specifically on startups looking for investment (while its funds are not limited to crypto, they do have several web3 investors).
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2MEIkt_HOi8 details its services towards startups.

Tracxn(https://tracxn.com/)
It is similar to crunchbase as in it provides extensive profiles of investors and companies including funding information, executives, competitors, contacts etc. Bangalore based company, also offers premium solutions including a startup funding database with 30k investors.

AngelList(https://www.angellist.com/):
Designed to connect startups and investors in tech, but not crypto focussed..Has some solutions for startups and raising https://www.angellist.com/startups
While not particularly web3 focussed, it is designed specifically to connect startups and investors in tech, with solutions for startups and raising.

Republic Crypto:
A crypto crowdfunding investment platform where several people invest in crypto startups, but not geard towards the big Venture Capital Funds.
https://republic.com/crypto

A few more sites that currently invite applications for investment from crypto companies.
https://coinlist.co/seed
https://crypto.com/us/capital https://www.speedinvest.com/crypto